WU IS MAKING NO EFFORT TO CHECK RAIDS OF OUTLAWS

Missioners Arrive At Hankow, Accuse General

MANY PROMISES

Foreigners Believe Warlords Are Playing Politics

Hankow, Nov. 30.—Last night the following refugees arrived in Hankow from Honan: Mrs. Anton Lundeen and three children, Mrs. O. W. Wickner and three children, Rev. Nels Benson with Mrs. Benson and two children, and Miss Anderson. They are members of the Augustana Lutheran Mission and reside at Kiahsien and Juchow in the district southeast of Loyang. Mrs. Lundeen is the wife of one of the American missionaries now in the hands of the brigands.

The arrival of these missionaries throws some light upon the activities of Wu Pei-fu for the extermination of the brigands and the release of foreign captives. Asked as to what is being done these missionaries report that some soldiers have been coming into the district, but they know of no determined effort on the part of Wu Pei-fu or anyone also to deal with the situation. The Chinese in their district report some desultory fighting, but nothing decisive.

It is also known that the Augustana Lutheran missionaries from Honanfu (Loyang) are on their way to Hankow. When missionaries cannot feel secure at Wu Pei-fu's very front door it look pretty hopeless.

"TO USE MOTOR CARS"

The Shanghai Journal of Commerce (Chinese) on the 26th of November reports that Wu Pei-fu is going to attack the bandits with machine guns mounted on motor cars, but, adds the paper, "as the robbers are largely hiding in hilly places, it is doubtful whether or not motor cars will be useful."

The editor may well say that, and one might be tempted to add, it is doubtful whether or not the motor cars and machine guns really exist. Very likely this story is of a piece with all the fine promises that are constantly being made by Wu Pei-fu and the Foreign Office. Promises are good so far as they go. But in the meantime the foreign captives remain in the hands of the brigands. It is more than three months since the French engineers were carried off from Shanghow, and about seven weeks since Mr. Forsberg and Mr. Lundeen were carried off. During these weeks Wu Pei-fu and the Foreign Office have repeatedly promised that "in a few days" the captives would be set free and everything satisfactorily arranged.

We are today reliably informed that the number of the brigands has been grossly exaggerated. The Rev. Mr. Ledgard who himself was a captive for two weeks or more, estimates their number at about 5,000. Others put the figure even lower.

LITTLE EXCUSE

If this be true it offers little excuse for those who have been entrusted with their suppression. But not only that. We are also reliably informed that General Feng Yu-hsiang on three different occasions asked permission to send his men after the bandits, but was refused. This probably was because Chang Fu-lai was at Chenghow and Chin Yun-ao at Sinyang, Chumatien, and Yencheng, and would brook no interference in the affairs of their respective districts.

Chin Yun-ao and Chang Fu-lai, these are the men who under Wu Pei-fu are entrusted with the suppression of bandits and the release of the foreign captives.

Are the legations doing anything to find out whether or not these men can be depended upon for aggressive action?

Among people from Central Honan it is notorious that Chin Yun-ao does not command the respect and obedience of his men. Chang Fu-lai is the man who succeeded Feng Yuh-siang in Kaifeng and in whose wake all the riff-raff driven out by Feng came back into the city. Both of them are said to be opium addicts.

It seems futile to look for effective measures from such sources.

BY J. L. BUTTS

Having completed his arrangements for a trip back to Kompo to visit the home folks, Li Tsung-zau piled his luggage into a ricsha and was trundled to the Kungping Road jetty, where he was to board ship for his native place.

"As I was settling up with the ricsha coolie," he told the Mixed Court Magistrate, "the defendant in this case dashed up, snatched my bundle of clothes from the ricsha and ran. I shouted and ran after him and he was caught by a policeman."

The defendant mentioned, Tsau Tau-zee, submitted that his presence in Court was the result of a pardonable mistake on his own part and a complete misunderstanding on the part of Li. When the latter drew up to the jetty, Tsau stated, he thought that he recognised the arrival as an old acquaintance of his.

"I, too, had been wanting to return to my native place," Tsau continued, "and when the complainant came on the scene and I mistook him for my old friend I thought that here was the chance. I approached him and asked him to loan me the price of a ticket. He said he didn't know me. I then saw that I had been in error as to his identity and said nothing more about the money. But I noticed that he had a lot of luggage and I thought that I would help him down to the jetty with the biggest bundle. When I picked it up he yelled 'robbers' and a couple of policemen jumped on me before I could explain."

The two policemen, however, corroborated Li's story of the chase, remarking that if it were Tsau's intention to carry the baggage onto the jetty he was taking a very round-about route. Tsau was voted guilty on the first ballot but sentence was postponed a week to give the police opportunity to explode or confirm a suspicion connecting him with other larcenies in the Kungping Road district.

ARMISTICE EFFECTED

When a war starts these days, even a private war, it's hard to predict where the finish will be. Sung Ts-ching and Yang Chingzen started one the other day which ramified so much that both contesting parties suffered defeat. They were arrested while mauling each other in Yunnan Road and were taken to Louza Station, where a little research work developed the fact that Sung had been convicted for various offenses five times in the Mixed Court and had been expelled from the Settlement frequently. Yang had been found guilty on six previous occasions and had been ejected repeatedly also.

"We had no intention of coming back into the Municipal area this time," they protested to the Court. "The fight started in Frenchtown, but we got so interested and ardent about it that the first thing we knew we had drifted across the border."

The Court exercised the wartime prerogative of interning the belligerents and after a three months' period they will be escorted again to the frontier and told to keep going.

JAPANESE ROB EXCHANGE SHOP CLERKS OF $1,000

Assistants Lured Into Automobile By Pretext

Japanese automobile bandits obtained $1,000 from two exchange shop assistants in a daring daylight holdup Monday, according to reports made to both the International and French police.

The robbery took place near the Del Monte Cafe on Avenue Haig when three Japanese in the automobile carrying the shop assistants and money suddenly turned on the assistants and chauffeur, forced them to give up the money, and then escaped across country.

The plans for the robbery had evidently been carefully laid. Earlier in the day a Japanese, supposed to be the 'runner' for a Japanese hotel on North Szechuen Road, visited an exchange shop at 3270 Seward Road with several yen bills of large denominations to be exchanged, explaining that a party of wealthy Japanese were at the hotel and desired the money exchanged.

Later in the afternoon, having established himself in the confidence of the exchange shop, the Japanese again appeared and requested that $4,000 or $5,000 be sent to the hotel to be exchanged for yen. The manager sent the two assistants in the car with $1,000. While crossing the Garden Bridge the Japanese saw 'two friends' who had been in the Public Gardens, and they also entered the car. It was then suggested that they take a short ride before going to the shop and the car was driven out the Bund to Loongwha, returning to the Settlement via Siccawei.

Near the Del Monte the three Japanese showed their hands, demanded the money and made good their escape. No arrests have been made.

Goldenberg Murder Still Baffles; No New Clues

No new clues have been turned up by police in the Goldenberg murder despite unremitting work on their part. The status of the murder mystery is just the same as it was the day Bernard Goldenberg's body was found, the only apparent headway being in the growing conviction that the motive was something else rather than robbery. What the actual motive was, however, is still undetermined.

Chief William Armstrong and his operatives have not relaxed their efforts desnite the passage of time without any additional light being thrown on the murder, and it is said that Chief Armstrong still remains optimistic in the belief that the murderer or murderers will be brought to justice.

U. S. Court Rules Law Holds; Alien Women Not Citizens By Marriage

Fortune Telling Charge Against Madame Isis Dismissed In First Test Of New American Marriage Laws

In the first test of the new American law which decrees that alien women marrying Americans do not become American citizens, United States Commissioner Nelson E. Lurton yesterday upheld the law and dismissed charges of fortunetelling against Madame Isis, a British subject who has married Mr. William Francis Wallace, an American, since the law went into effect on September 22.

Commissioner Lurton ruled that as the new law is specific in stating that women of any other nationality do not become American citizens automatically upon their marriage to an American, as in the past, the American Court had no jurisdiction in the case.

It was the second time that Madame Isis has been discharged because of lack of jurisdiction as charges against her were dismissed in the British Police Court by Judge Peter Grain last week on the grounds that by her marriage she had lost her British citizenship.

The hearing yesterday afternoon was replete with interesting legal angles as it was not only the first test of the new law, not only in China, but anywhere, but was also the first time the ancient laws dealing with witchcraft have been evoked in the local American Courts.

HOLCOMB SERVES WARNING

As a result of the case, however, Acting District Attorney C. P. Holcomb served notice that in the future whenever it was impossible to take action against alien women married to Americans because of their evasion of the law by the marriage law he would take action against their American husbands as accessories to the crime or misdemeanor.

"And one other thing I wish to make clear," Major Holcomb said. "It has been rumored that Americans could tell fortunes without fear of the law and I wish it distinctly understood that they cannot. It is against American laws to tell fortunes professionally."

Madame Isis was arraigned before Commissioner Lurton on the charge that she told fortunes in the Palace Hotel and was represented by Mr. H. D. Rodger, who also advised her to be married and who appeared for her in the dismissal in the British Police Court.

Mr. Rodger asserted that the charge had been brought under ancient American 'blue laws' dealing with witchcraft and other prehistoric high crimes and misdemeanors.

"Under the same laws," Mr. Rodger declared, "it is against the law for anyone to drive a self-propelled vehicle down the street unless a man with a red flag is continually out in front of the vehicle waving a red flag. If such common law holds good in Shanghai every American here violates the law daily by driving his automobile down the street without a man with a red flag do the waving act."

THE "BLUE LAWS"

Mr. Rodger then quoted Blackstone on the 'blue laws' as follows:

"VI. Witchcraft.—A sixth species of offence against God and religion, of which our ancient books are full, is a crime of which one knows not well what account to give. I mean the offence of witchcraft, conjuration, inchantment or sorcery. To deny the possibility, nay, actual existence, of witchcraft and sorcery, is at once flatly to contradict the revealed word of God, in various passages both of the Old and New Testament: and the thing itself is a truth to which every nation in the world hath in its turn borne testimony, either by examples seemingly well attested, or by prohibitory laws: which at least suppose the possibility of commerce with

U.S. EXPENSES IN NEXT FISCAL YEAR OVER 3 BILLIONS

Estimates Reduced Half Billion Over Present Year

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Dec. 4.—President Harding transmitted the Budget to Congress today.

The Budget shows a probable Government expenditure for the year ending June 30, 1924, of $3,181,000,000 which is $500,000,000 below the estimates of the current fiscal year.

The President declared that any further material reduction in Government expense or taxes depended on whether there should be a curtailment of Government aid in research, improvement and development. He called attention to the fact that two-thirds of the present disbursements were for practically fixed charges and there was only about $1,000,000,000 left against which retrenchment could be directed.

The estimates for 1923-24 showed an excess of receipts over expenditure of $181,000,000 as compared with an estimated deficit of $274,000,000 in the current year which, however, the President hopes to see greatly reduced during the remaining seven months of the year.

President Harding predicted that there would be a postal surplus of nearly $1,000,000 in 1924 instead of the usual deficit.

Other large estimates are $257,000,000 for the Army including $13,000,000 for the Army Air Service, and $290,000,000 for the Navy.

Indian To Be Sent Back To His Home

Junga Singh, a Sikh well known in police circles, was ordered deported to India by Judge Peter Grain in the British Police Court yesterday when he was charged with having assaulted Police Sergeant Fitzpatrick in the Central Police Station.

Sgt. Fitzpatrick testified that the Sikh had entered the station yesterday, thrown a bundle of dirty clothes in his face, and swore at him in both English and Chinese. Detective Sgt. Douglas gave corroborative testimony.

Inspector Young, who prosecuted for the police, stated that the Sikh had lost caste, and was not considered sane. He asked for his deportation. The Sikh was perfectly satisfied with the deportation order.

SOVIET TROOPS CONCENTRATE ON BORDER, REPORT

Cavalry, Infantry And Artillery On Manchurian Frontier

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 2.—It is reported on what is believed to be good authority that some ten thousand Soviet troops, including cavalry, infantry and artillery, are concentrated on the Manchurian border, and that on November 30 a party of about 150 Soviet cavalry crossed the border and carried out a raid on Chinese territory. The Chinese military authorities are hastily making defensive preparations, but the troops at their disposal are vastly outnumbered by the Red forces across the border, and it is not believed that they could successively resist any possible offensive. General Chang Tso-lin is understood to have appointed General Chen Ching-lou commander-in-chief of the Chinese border troops.

Koo And Wang Not Impeached, Says Peking Manifesto

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 2.—The following statement has been issued to Reuter's Agency for circulation:

It is not true that the lower house has impeached Dr. Koo and Dr. Wang. It has merely forwarded a despatch to the President asking for an official investigation of their connection with the Australian Loan case. No investigation, however, has been ordered by the President, who is reported to have been perfectly convinced of the innocence of these two statesmen.

Various Chinese circles confirm the previous report that Dr. Koo's name was hurriedly inserted in the resolution of investigation passed by the lower house for the purpose of preventing him from accepting the President's invitation to form a new Cabinet. This manœuver of his political opponents appears to have been successive. Since Dr. Koo declined to accept any portfolio in the new Cabinet, the President has now offered him the post of President of the Administrative Court which has just been vacated by Mr. Wang Tah-hsieh, the new Premier, it is, however, not certain that Dr. Koo will accept this new post.

AGREEMENTS EXCHANGED BY WANG--OBATA ON SHANTUNG

Chinese And Japanese Commissioners In Friendly Mood

TRANSFER, TENTH

Landed Property Issue Remains Unsettled

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 2.—Dr. C. T. Wang, Chief Commissioner of the Chinese Commission, made the following statement on the occasion of exchanging the signed copies of the agreement relating to arrangements for the execution of the Shantung Treaty, at five o'clock yesterday afternoon:

"It is indeed regrettable that for eight years the Shantung question has remained unsettled. Fortunately, however, the two countries concluded a treaty at Washington last year settling thereby the general principles on this question. In accordance with the terms of that treaty, we, the Chinese Commissioners, under instructions from our Government, have negotiated for five months with you for the settlement of the detailed arrangements.

"We are glad to see all the questions satisfactorily settled. This is indeed a very fortunate event in the interest of the relations of our two countries. We regret very much, however, that the question of landed property hitherto acquired by foreign nationals remains still unsettled. I sincerely hope that after taking over the territory of Kiaochow, our two Governments will also arrive at an agreement at an early date.

STILL NEGOTIATING

"The work within the competence of the First Commission now being concluded, the questions belonging to the Second Commission are still in the course of discussion. We look forward earnestly to an early settlement of the questions of the Second in the same way as those of the First Commission have been settled. This is the earnest hope of our people as well as that of my colleagues and myself. With your permission I take pleasure in handing you the agreement."

Mr. Obata, head of the Japanese Commission, replied in the following terms:

"Since we act for the purpose of concluding the detailed arrangements five months have expired. Thanks to the friendly effort and conciliatory spirit shown mutually by the commissioners of our two countries, we have now reached an agreement and have affixed our signatures thereto and decided upon the transfer on the tenth of December. Not only we, the commissioners, secretly rejoice in this settlement, we sincerely believe that our government and people share our gratification.

SEEK SETTLEMENT

"Since the Versailles Conference we have earnestly looked forward to a settlement of this question, and only last year were the general principles settled at the Washington Conference. The detailed arrangements being concluded at the time of signing this agreement, we cannot but look forward to the development of Tsingtau day by day in the future in view of the results of our eight years' activities, which are to be completely transferred to China.

"I share the regret of Dr. Wang that the question of landed property is still unsettled and the work of the Second Commission not yet concluded. I do not doubt that the day is not far distant when we shall also see them satisfactorily settled if we try to proceed in the same spirit of mutual conciliation."

Mr. Obata then delivered to Dr. Wang the signed copy of the agreement in the Japanese language.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Dec. 5.—With regard to the conclusion of the Sino-Japanese agreement on the Shantung issue, the Tokio "Asahi" writes:

"It is noteworthy that after the transfer to China of the administrative power of Tsingtau, whether or not Shantung is able to maintain public peace as heretofore in view of the present state of affairs in China, especially of the rampancy of bandits in Shantung. To maintain peace and order in that province, the co-operation on the part of China and Japan is most essential, and it may be safely said that Japan has done right when she has, after obtaining approval of the Diplomatic Corps at Peking, furnished China with arms to such an extent as to maintain peace and order in Shantung.

"The Sino-Japanese joint management of the mines tends to develop Shantung economically, but whether or not these will be operated successfully depend upon the effort on the part of the parties concerned as well as upon the morality of the people of China. In short, the Japanese people are requested not to dream of the protection of the powers-that-be but to go forward with the common interests of self and others in view and it is to be hoped that China will ponder well on the fact that the recovery of Shantung is due to the tendency of the times and that the prosperity of Tsingtau has not been effected by the efforts of China, paying her most attention to the future administration of Shantung

The Yomiuri states:

"The party that will most benefit by the settlement of the Shantung issue is China as a matter of course. If China should be grateful for the conciliatory attitude of Japan and should give her friendly heart to the latter, close relationship between the two countries will without doubt be brought about, resulting in the permanent peace of the Orient. But should China attempt to deal with Japan, consulting only her own self interest, the result will be contrary to her expectation, and the relations between the two countries will change for the worse. In this connection, we cannot hold out much hope, judging from the national character of China. To accomplish our expected end, it is imperative for the authorities and the people in general to endeavor to improve the present state of affairs in the Orient positively."

The Tokio Nichi Nichi says:

"Frankly speaking, Japan has made too much concession in the Sino-Japanese negotiations, but when we consider this failure as the result of the blunder Japan made at the Washington Conference, it would be useless to cry over spilt milk. We cannot help hoping that the Japanese residents in Shantung will do their best with the object of making their peaceful and economic expansion without relying as heretofore upon the protection of the Government officials and the military force."

Peking, Dec. 5.—The agreement of the Second Section of the Sino-Japanese Joint Commission on the Shantung question was duly signed today.

K.M.A. MAY TAKE OVER PHILIPPINE COAL FIELDS

Manila Reports Kailan Negotiates For Insular Government Properties

The Kailan Mining Administration is considering taking a lease on the Mindanao coal properties of the National Coal Company of the Philippines, according to information received in Shanghai last night.

Negotiations have been going on in Manila between the National officials and Mr. Joseph F. Gargan, Manila representative of the Kailan concern for some time, according to the Manila Bulletin.

The National Coal Company is a government concern, and from government sources The Bulletin has learned that if the lease deal goes through as expected the National company will be dissolved. Higher tariff on coal imported into the Philippines and a subsidy to concerns mining coal in the Islands would result from the lease funds, according to the information.

The Philippine Government has invested Pesos 5,000,000 in the properties since the mines were first opened in 1917. About Pesos 450,000 has been spent in actual mine developments, and the remainder spent in building a complete transportation system including a railroad, coal bunkers, wharf and loading equipment, connecting the large coal fields with tidewater. They also have one collier. It is figured that it will take an additional investment of Pesos 600,000 to develop the coal fields to a highly efficient productive basis.

Mr. W. H. Barham, local manager of the Kailan Mining Administration, said last night that he had no information concerning the reported deal.

Foreigners Urged By Wu To Leave Infested Regions

(China Press Correspondence)

Chengchow, Honan, Dec. 4.—With the coming of news of the capture of a Catholic priest by bandits, this week end, General Wu Pei-fu has advised all foreigners in the interior of Honan to move to Loyang and Chengchow. It is stated that he feared the provincial troops in the different localities may fail to accord adequate protection to other foreign residents.

During the last two weeks, there has been a general exodus of foreigners, mostly missionaries, from Honan cities to Hankow, to which also have flocked large numbers of Chinese refugees. All missionary schools and hospitals in the interior of the province have been closed.

It appears that the provincial troops have utterly failed in their attempt to round up the brigands at Nanyangfu, following their temporary victory at Kichhsien and Piyang. The bandit movement has not only grown worse in Honan but has again spread to the border of Anhwei, where a Catholic priest is reported to have been captured during the week-end.

The bandits demand the payment of the sum of one million dollars by either the provincial authorities or the commercial bodies. In the event of their demand not being complied with, they declare that they will attack Loyang and hold up General Wu Pei-fu for ransom.

The Southern section of the Kin-Han Railway is being strongly guarded. No troops, however, are stationed in regions to the West of the line.

It is reported that the immediate plan of the bandits is to launch a surprise attack on Hsuchow and then, diverting their course to the East along the Kin-Han Railway, march on Kweitehfu, Keifeng and Chengchow in succession. Attempts are being made to seize the Kunghsien Arsenal (which was built by Yuan Shih-kai and is now one of Wu Pei-fu's chief sources of war supplies) despite the bandits' failure to do so on a recent occasion.

At The Olympic

The Far East Players presented "Cornered," a detective story, at the Olympic last night, before a fair house. "Cornered," described as a comedy drama, is somewhat wobbly as to plot, but offers many opportunities for character sketching that were accepted with great skill by all the players, particularly Miss Blood, who started out as a daughter of the underworld and finished as the sister of an heiress, and Herbert Light, as a safe cracker and dope fiend. Mr. Baldwin, as the detective, was quite convincing, and Gordon Davis, as Brewster, the butler, was very clever. Mr. Frawley's part did not call for much. Miss Blood and Mr. Light rose to great emotional heights at times.

It is too bad that the house was not larger. The play was interesting from start to finish, and actually gripping in many instances. The dialogue was good, and the whole piece beautifully acted throughout.

This excellent company is to appear in three more performances here. Tonight "The Cat And The Canary" will be presented. Tomorrow night the bill will be "The Only Girl," and on Friday the most popular of the plays presented here, "Smilin' Thru" will close the present engagement.

MRS. LOEHR IS SPEAKER ON 'MADONNA IN ART'

Especially fitting, as an introduction to the Christmas season, was the illustrated lecture on "The Madonna In Art" which was given yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the American Woman's Club by Mrs. George R. Loehr.

Mrs. Loehr's paper was carefully prepared. It was make unusually interesting because Mrs. Loehr has visited the great picture galleries of Europe, seen the originals of the pictures shown and traveled over the land where the Madonna lived. The majority of her slides were made from her own photographs collected in Florence and The Holy Land.

The life of the Virgin Mary was described by Mrs. Loehr as depicted in prose, poetry, and painting. In a graphic manner, illustrating her talk by many personal stories and quaint legends picked up during her travels, she described the life of Mary; told of her parents; of her girlhood spent in the temple; of her romantic marriage to Joseph; of the birth of the Christ child; the flight into Egypt; her later life and her influence upon the Christ.

In speaking of the character of Mary, Mrs. Loehr quoted the following verse from Robert Browning:

"There is a vision in the heart of each,
Of justice, mercy, wisdom, tenderness
To wrong and pain, and knowledge of their cure;
And these embodied in a woman's form
That best transmits them pure as first received

In her talk Mrs. Loehr brought in much of the life of Christ and in closing gave her audience a beautiful Christmas message of "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

Tokio Defends Stand On The Shantung And Other Issues Affecting China

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 2.—The Japanese Legation has issued the following statement:

The Treaty for the Settlement of Outstanding Questions Relative to Shantung signed at Washington on February 4, 1922, provides: "The Japanese troops, including gendarmes, now stationed along the Tsingtau-Tsinanfu Railway and its branches shall be withdrawn as soon as the Chinese police or military force shall have been sent to take over the protection of the Railway" and further that "the entire withdrawal of such Japanese troops shall be effected within three months, if possible, and in any case not later than six months from the date of the signature of the present Treaty." The Treaty also provided that: "The Japanese garrison at Tsingtau shall be completely withdrawn simultaneously, if possible, with the transfer to China of the administration of the former German Leased Territory of Kiaochow, and, in any case, not later than thirty days from the date of such transfer."

Pursuant to the letter and spirit of these provisions of the Treaty the Japanese Government withdrew the troops from along the Railway with the least possible delay. On March 27 the agreement for carrying out the withdrawal was concluded at Peking with the Chinese Government, and the withdrawal was effected on May 5, that is three months after the signature of the Treaty—that is to say within the shortest period provided for in the Treaty. All the troops along the Railway had been withdrawn by the above-mentioned date, and by May 9 they had been sent home via Tsiangtau. As the Japanese troops withdrew Chinese guards were placed along the Railway, and since that time they have been discharging their duties, fortunately, in a satisfactory manner.

As to the withdrawal of troops garrisoned at Tsingtau will be promptly effected in accordance with the provisions of the Washington Treaty when this is rendered possible by the progress of the detailed arrangements now proceeding at Peking.

HANKOW TROOPS

The Japanese Government, on May 27 1911, announced that the Japanese garrison at Hankow would be promptly withdrawn. In accordance with this decision all the Japanese troops were withdrawn from Hankow on July 2, 1922.

At the Washington Conference the Japanese Delegation announced that the military radio apparatus in the barracks of the Japanese garrison at Hankow would be disposed of at the time of the withdrawal of troops, and in accordance with this announcement the Japanese Government is making preparations to pull down the whole wireless equipment. As to the barracks, accessory buildings and the land on which they are situated, part of them will be lent to the local Japanese residents to be used as a playground, club or public hall, other parts will be lent to the Tao Dobun-kai, for the purpose of enlarging an educational institution having as its object the promotion of Sino-Japanese culture and welfare.

POST OFFICES

The Japanese Government will abolish the Japanese Post Offices in China by January 1, 1923, in connected with the abolition of el at the Washington Conference concerning foreign postal agencies in China. But the communication between Japan and China is so peculiarly close and extensive that it is desirable to conclude—in order to save both countries the inconvenience arising from the abolition of the Japanese Post Offices—a special agreement looking to a reluction of charges and an improvement of postal arrangements on the basis of the International Postal Convention, and to carry such special agreement into effect before the Japanese post offices are abolished.

It was considered necessary to confer with the Chinese authorities regarding these and other matters connected with the abolition of Japanese Post Offices, and with these objects in view the Japanese Government proposed to the Chinese Government that the Governments of Japan and China appoint delegates to hold a conference. The Chinese Govrnment agreed to the proposal and the negotiations were opened at Peking on August 18, 1922.

The negotiations have been steadily progressing, and we expect that they will be concluded in a very short time. The special postal agreement mentioned above relates to ordinary mail, parcel post, letters and parcel boxes with declared values, and potsal money orders.

CARTER SPEAKS AT UNION CHURCH ON CHIEN TANG

Literary And Social Guild Lecture This Evening; Plan For Xmas

At the Union Church Literary and Social Guild tonight Mr. J. C. Carter is giving a lantern lecture on "A Trip on the Chien Tang River." The lantern slides are made from pictures taken by Mr. Carter and have recently been colored in Japan, so they are being shown tonight for the first time. Perhaps some may not realise that the Chien Tang is the river entering Chekiang Province near Hangchow, famous for the tidal wave which draws so many visitors from Shanghai every autumn, and famous also for the beauty of its scenery which is comparatively little known among Europeans.

Members are requested to show their tickets at the door. For others there will be an admission charge of $1. No membership tickets will be issued at the door, but they may be had during the day upon application to one of the secretaries. The meeting will be in the large hall.

A fortnight later, December 20, there will be a musical and dramatic entertainment arranged by Miss Ethel Lacey and Mrs. J. P. Davies. Members are asked to keep the date in mind. At this Christmas program there will be a collection in aid of local charities.

MANCHURIA TRIES OUT SEPARATION OF GOVERNMENT

One More Regiment Disarmed As Officers Are Paid For Extra Month

(Special To The China Press)

Mukden, November 23.—The division of civil from military power is being effectively carried out in the three Manchurian provinces. Kirin now has its own governor in the person of Mr. Kwei Hsin-chia and its own Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, Mr. [illegible]. All civil and diplomatic affairs are being handled by the Kirin's own authorities, although Marshal Chang Tso-lin is still supreme in his military command over the entire area.

Another regiment of troops has been disbanded by Marshal Chang. More than 1,000 infantrymen belonging to the reserve regiment of the fifth mixed brigade have been sent away, while the remainder, numbering several hundred who are able to read and write, are retained to fill the vacancies in other brigades. The officers of the regiment were given one month's extra salary and discharged.

Freedom Of Straits Conference Issue

(Reuter's Service)

Lausanne, Dc. 4.—Interest in the Conference which recently was waning was revived today by the opening of the discussion of the freedom of the Straits by the Territorial and Military Questions Commission. Four of the Russian delegates, M. Chicherin, Rakovsky, Vorfsky and Divani participated, the last-named being the Gaorgian delegate.

The Straits Commission heard three proposals, the Bulgarian, Rumanian, and Russian. The Turks supported the Russian proposal excluding warships from the Black Sea and leaving the guardianship of the Straits to Turkey. The Turks were not ready fully to state their case, in which connection Lord Curzon rebuked them. The Commission hereupon adjourned sine die in order to examine the proposals and to give the Turks time to formulate a reply.

London, Dec. 4.—According to the Times' Lausanne correspondent it is generally considered that Baron Hayashi foreshadowed a possible compromise with regard to the Capitulations in Turkey.

It is believed that the Allies will offer to abolish the Capitulations after a comparatively short term of years provided that in the interval satisfactory readjustments are made in the local legal system and its administration.

Lausanne, Dec. 4.—M. Chicherin's note to the President of the Conference protesting against the exclusion of the Russian delegates from the Conference excepting the discussion on the Straits was drawn up after a long interview between M. Chicherin and Ismet Pasha.

The Note concludes by saying that in order not to aggravate the inconvenience which the complete absence of Russia would inevitably entail the Russian delegation will participate in the work of the Straits Commission.

Li Declares The Cabinet Is Mere 'Stop Gap' Affair

(China Press Service)

Peking, Dec. 4.—President Li Yuan-hung has dispatched a telegram to Gen. Tsao Kun in reply to the latter's protest against the appointment of the Wang Ta-hsieh Cabinet. The message states that the new Cabinet was appointed merely to facilitate the restoration of Tsingtau and to maintain "the status quo of the political situation." It adds that the Government is looking for a suitable successor to Mr. Wang.

President Li is reported to have instructed Kin Yung-yin, his much trusted secretary, to send a private telegram to Lu Chin, Gen. Tsao Kun's protege, requesting him to ascertain the Paotingfu Super-Tuchun's attitude towards the proposed appointment of Gen. Chang Shao-tseng, Minister of War, as Premier.

Cornell Takes Turkey Day Game; Detroit Defeats Vermont

(China Press Special)

New York, Nov. 30 (Delayed).—The American football season practically closed with the Thanksgiving Day games. Penn State, which goes to Pasadena to play the University of California on New Year's Day, triumphed over Glenn Warner's great University of Pittsburg eleven by a score of 9-7.

Princeton emerges the undoubted champion of the Big Three of the East, having defeated both Yale and Harvard. Yale has a particularly unfortunate season, losing to both Princeton and Harvard.

Owen, Harvard's great fullback, virtually won the Yale game for the Crimson in the Yale Bowl when he ran through the Yale team 57 yards for a touchdown in the first quarter. Yale scored three points on a drop-kicked field goal in the second quarter. Praffman ran Harvard's total up to 10 when he drop-kicked a field goal in the final period.

In the Big Ten Conference both Iowa and Michigan came through the season without a defeat. Michigan had the harder schedule within the conference and defeated Illinois, for instance, by a much larger margin than did the Hawkeyes, but Howard Jones' Iowa team's claim to premier honors is strengthened by its early season victory over Yale.

PASS-WINNING PLAY

Nebraska is the undisputed champion of the Missouri Valley, having defeated all conference rivals by one-sided scores. Nebraska's only defeat of the season was at the hands of Syracuse, 9 to 6.

In the South, Vanderbilt and Alabama, which did not meet, seem to be the strongest teams.

The University of California again won an undisputed title to the championship of the Pacific Coast by defeating Leland Standford, jr., University in the annual contest, 28 to 0.

An outstanding feature of the season just closing is the large part played by the forward pass. Virtually every championship winner made a large and effective use of this play.

By winning the annual gridiron classic from the Navy, the West Point Cadets made the standing of the two schools 13 victories apiece. The score was 17 to 14, in a contest that was in doubt until the final whistle. Both teams finished with a strong offen-

TIPTON OF ARMY GAINED FAME BY QUICK THINKING

Freak Play In 1904 Made Him Place Of Mythical All-America Team

When freak and hard-fought football games are under discussion, the Army-Navy annual classics always get their share of attention. The game played on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, on Turkey Day, 1904, is one battle which will live long in the minds of fans who witnessed the contest. The teams were exceedingly evenly matched and before the game was long under way it was apparent that a break would decide the struggle. This break came in a very remarkable way.

Ten minutes of a tight first half had elapsed. Torney, West Point fullback, standing on his five-yard line, punted the ball to midfield. Tipton, Army center, and a man of great speed and agility, went down under the punt. He arrived at the point where Norton, Navy quarterback, was standing somewhat in advance of the Army ends, and just as the ball was coming down Norton tried to catch it, but the oval slipped from his arms and rolled along the ground.

Tipton was after the pigskin the instant it was dropped, but Norton and other hostile players were closing in upon him, so that he had no time to pick the ball up and run through the clear field in front of him for a score.

With remarkable presence of mind the West Point man kicked the ball as it rolled along the ground, and again sped after the ball.

The Navy men were after him with redoubled speed, and so again there was no opportunity to scoop up the oval. Tipton therefore dealt the ball another boot while on the dead run, and after again following it kicked it on the third time over the Navy goal line, where he dropped on the oval for a touchdown.

This event was the crucial point of the game, for it changed the entire aspect of the conflict.

Tipton's play was a subject of great interest after the game, and he became universally known among followers of the sport on account of this brilliant play, being awarded a place on the mythical "All-American" at the close of the season. The play in itself was a specimen of extraordinary coolness and head-work.

WILLIE HOPPE AGAIN CHAMPION; DEFEATS "JAKE"

Wins Final Match In International Tourney; Score 500-283

(China Press Special)

New York, Nov. 30 (delayed)—Willie Hoppe of New York again became the world 18.2 balkline billiard champion, defeating Jake Schaefer of San Francisco, 500 to 283, in the final match of the international billiard tournament.

Hoppe came from behind at a critical stage of the contest when Schaefer was leading him by more than one hundred points. At the close he put together massive run of 108 and finished with a run of 106.

Roger Conti, French champion, defeated Edward Horesmans, Belgian champion, in the fourteenth game of the international tournament, 500 to 303.

American School Quintet Surprises Fast Bearcats, Trimming Them 33 To 16

Whirlwind Attack Of Schoolboys Bewilders Irle's Team; Smith, Squires And Shipley Star

BY TOMMY GRAFTON

Fighting like demons, the wonder five of the American School, headed by Roy Squires, defeated the fast Bearcat quintet in a sensational game last night. The final score was 33 to 16.

The victory of the School was entirely unexpected, coming, as it did, after two days of practice. In spite of inexperience, however, the school-boys played together well and displayed shooting ability worthy of a championship team. The result was that Irle's powerful team, which was expected to lead the league, was unable to fathom the wonderful attack of Squires and Shipley, while the guards, Hager and Maxcy Smith, hung on to their opponents like leeches and prevented any close range shooting. The Bearcats scored their, eight baskets largely by distance or chance shots.

Maxcy Smith, of Soochow, was clearly the individual star of the match. The slim schoolboy guard was in the thick of the fight, and in addition to his brilliant work at his position, slipped up and scored five baskets in spectacular form.

Roy Squires, the School's crack center, played a hard, driving game, guarding Irle in great style, and leading the S.A.S. attack. "Dud" Squires played forward for a few minutes and played a bang-up game, dropping the ball through the net twice for markers. Hager played well at guard, and Shipley looks like an old-timer in his forward position, scrapping like an All-American.

For the losers Irle and Roxburgh played their usual hard game. Kenny was not in very good form, but he and the lanky forward did most of the playing for the Bearcats. Gray played a fast game at forward, but was unable to score.

The School jumped into an early lead, running wild after Roxburgh's basket had placed the opposition in a two-point lead. The half ended with the score standing 19-4. During the second half, both teams fought hard, the School caging a number of goals at the finish.

The individual scoring follows:

American School		Bearcats
"Dud" Squires	lf	Gray
Shipley	rf	Roxburgh
Roy Squires	c	Irle
Hager	lg	Hirsch
Smith	rg	Lewis
Parker	f	Pollock
McGinnis	g	MacGowan
	g	Elliott
	f	Renneman

Goals from floor: Smith 5, Irle 3, Roxburgh 3, "Dud" Squires 2, Shipley 2, Hager 2, McGinnis 2, Roy Squires 2, Pollock, Renneman.

Goals from fouls: Roy Squires 3, Referee: T. B. Chang. Timekeeper, Zee. Scorer: Grafton.

KOBE ENTERTAINS BIG LEAGUERS AT A DINNER DANCE

Americans Hosts At Oriental Hotel; Hunter Given Ovation

Kobe, Nov. 27.—The visiting American major league baseball players and the other members of their party were entertained with a dinner and dance by local Americans at the Oriental Hotel Saturday night. The function was attended by 120 persons.

Mr. D. H. Blake, general manager of the National Aniline and Chemical Company here, one of the first Americans to teach baseball to the Japanese, acted as toastmaster. Following his address Mr. Herbert H. Hunter, manager of the team, received a great ovation when he arose to reply.

CHINESE BEGIN BASKETBALL YEAR

The Chinese Basketball League officially opened its season with three games last evening, two at the "Y" gym, and one at St. John's. Although the games were were not as clean and fast as expected, they provided some spectacular shooting and passing.

The Amateur Basket Team got away in the first game, with Tyau, the ex-St. John's star leading the attack against the Fuhtan five. The Fuhtan team had the advantage in weight, but the A. B. C. forward kept on piling up the score which was 21 in their favor against Fuhtan's 16 during the interval.

The Fuhtan team was greatly handicapped in their unfamiliarity to the "Y" gym, and missed several points by their poor shooting. Lee, their center made the highest number of points for his team, netting eight goals.

The second half saw faster ball and both teams showed better combination work. Jacob Yang deserved credit for his persistent guarding work for the A.B.C. team which led in the score throughout the game. The final was 41 to 31.

The summaries are as follows:

A. B. C.		Fuhtan College
T. T. Zee	c	T. L. Zee
C. H. Tyau	rf	S. M. Chao
Z. M. Woo	lf	S. E. Chang
Jacob Yang	rg	C. S. Wang and C. H. Lin
Wang Jao	lg	S. L. Hon

Goals from floor: Tyau 10, Woo 8, Yang 1, J. Wang 1, Zee 3, Chang 3, Chao 2, Lee 1.

Goals from fouls: Woo 1, Chao 3.

Referee: Kwang. Timer: Chang. Scorer: Voong.

The second game in the "Y" proved an easy win for Shanghai College over the Cantonese Baptist Church team by a score of 33 to 17. The college lads were outplayed in every scope of the game. Ma scored seven goals for the college, and Yuen played well in the guarding work. For the Church team, the Liang brothers played brightly.

VILLA BARRED FROM SCRAPS WITH BANTY'S

Filipino Must Stick To His Own Division, Says Commission

SET FOR WILDE

Many Scrappers And Old Timers Would Coach Manila Wonder

(China Press Special)

New York, December 4.—Pancho Villa, American flyweight champion, must stick to his weight. The New York Boxing commission has decreed that he shall not go out of his class to fight bantams as there are plenty of good flyweights for him to meet in the United States.

The action stops Villa just as he was on his way to a clean-up in the bantam ranks as he is better, probably, than any bantamweight in the country. Sporting editors are unanimous in their expression of opinion that the speedy Filipino was destined to become the bantamweight title holder.

In the meantime the Manila scrapper is getting set for his bout with Jimmy Wilde for the world's flyweight championship. Because of his consistently wonderful exhibitions since he has been in America, Frank Churchill, his manager, has been besieged with offers from great fighters in every division, who would help Villa prepare for the Wilde fight.

Many old timers have expressed a willingness to teach the Filipino as they realise that Wilde, the conqueror of Johnny Ruff, will meet the greatest flyweight in the world.

evil spirits. The civil law punishes with death not only the sorcerers themselves, but also those who consult them, (j) omitting in the former the express law of God, (k) "thou shalt not suffer a witch to live." And our own laws, both before and since the conquest (.61) have been equally penal; ranking this crime in the same class with heresy, condemning both to the flames. (l) The president Montesquieu (m) ranks them also both together but with a very different view; laying it down as an important maxim, that we ought to be very circumspect in the prosecution of magic and heresy; because the most unexceptionable conduct, the purest morals, and the constant practice of every duty in life, are not a sufficient security against the suspicion of crimes like these. And indeed the ridiculous stories that are generally told, and the many impostures and delusions that have been discovered in all ages, are enough to demolish all faith in such a dubious crime; if the contrary evidence were not also extremely strong. Wherefore it seems to be the most eligible way to conclude, with an ingenious writer of our own, (n) that in general there has been such a thing as witchcraft; though one cannot give credit to any particular modern instance of it.

"Our forefathers were stronger believers, when they enacted by statute 33 Hen. VIII, c. 8, all witchcraft and sorcery to be felony without benefit of clergy; and again by statute 1 Jac. 1, c. 12, that all persons invoking any evil spirit, or consulting, covenanting with, entertaining, employing, feeding or rewarding any evil spirit; or taking up dead bodies from their graves to be used in any witchcraft, sorcery, charm, or inchantment; or killing or otherwise hurting any person by such infernal arts, should be guilty of felony without benefit of clergy, and suffer death. And, if any person should attempt by sorcery to discover hidden treasure, or to restore stolen goods, or to provoke unlawful love, or to hurt any man or beast, though the same were not effected, he or she should suffer imprisonment and pillory for the first offence, and death for the second. These acts continued in force till lately, to the terror of all ancient females in the kingdom; and many poor wretches were sacrificed thereby to the prejudice of their neighbors, and their own illusions; not a few having, by some means or other, confessed the fact at the gallows. But, all executions for this dubious crime are now at an end; our legislature having at length followed the wise example (1.62) of Louis XIV, in France, thought proper by an edict to restrain the tribunals of justice from receiving informations of witchcraft, (o) And accordingly it is with us enacted by statute 9 Geo. II, c. 5, that no prosecution shall for the future be carried on against any person for conjuration, witchcraft, sorcery, or inchantment. But the misdemeanor of persons pretending to use witchcraft, tell fortunes, or discover stolen goods by skill in the occult sciences, is still deservedly punished with a year's imprisonment, and standing four times in the pillory. (*)

(*) The vagrant act treats these as rogues and vagabonds, and restrains and punishes them accordingly.

Major Holcomb denied that the charge was brought as Mr. Rodger stated, saying that while it was an old 'blue law' and provided for one year's imprisonment and standing four times in the pillory—which were abolished in 1837—the exact act under which she was charged was an American law adopted from the reign of King George II of June 24, 1736, which was as follows:

"An act to repeal the statute made in the first year of the reign of K. James the 1st (which was witchcraft act).

"IV. And for the more effectual preventing and punishing any pretences to such acts as are before mentioned (witchcraft, sorcery, inchantment or conjuration) whereby ignorant persons are frequently deluded and defrauded; be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that if any person shall, from and after the twenty-fourth day of June, pretend to exercise or use any kind of witchcraft, sorcery, inchantment, or conjuration; or undertake to tell fortunes, or pretend from his or her skill or knowledge in any occult or crafty science to discover where or in what manner any goods or chattles, supposed to have been stolen or lost, may be found; every person so offending, having thereof lawfully convicted on indictment or information on that part of Great Britain called England, or an indictment or libel in that part of Great Britain called Scotland, shall for every such offense suffer imprisonment by the space of one whole year without bail or mainprize and once in every quarter of said year in some market town of the proper country upon the market day there stand openly on the pillory for the space of one hour, and shall also (if the court by which such judgment shall be given shall think fit) be obliged to give sureties for his or her good behavior, in such sum, and for such time, as the said court shall judge proper according to the circumstances of the offence, and in such case shall be further imprisoned until such sureties be given."

COMMON LAW HERE

Major Holcomb then asserted that the old common law was still in existence in its pure form in many Eastern states in the United States, and that the ancient witchcraft laws of Salem were in force until 1850 in at least one state.

"In fact the common law has been evoked in Shanghai," Major Holcomb asserted. "In the case in which Ralph S. Boyd was charged with jail-breaking he was charged under the common law covering that crime—a law that came down from the time of Queen Anne."

"If the Court holds that in this particular case Madame Isis is not American and is subject only to the jurisdiction of the Mixed Court it will, of course, be to her benefit. There are, however, many Chinese laws which would work a decided hardship on foreigners becoming subject to them."

Both Mr. Rodger and Major Holcomb then stated that they had reached an agreement whereby the charges against Madame Isis would be withdrawn by the government on the promise that she would no longer continue to tell fortunes in Shanghai.

THE LAW TESTED

Commissioner Lurton, however, said that the question was clear cut and should be decided. Either Madame Isis was subject to the American Court, or she was not, he said, and if she was not the American Court had no right to cause her to discontinue telling fortunes.

Major Holcomb then asserted that the only knowledge Shanghai had of the new American law on marriages was telegraphic advice received by the American Minister at Peking and forwarded to Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham here, and that until complete official copies of the law were received it was impossible to say whether or not there was any provision in the law which might allow the court's jurisdiction. In support of his contention Major Holcomb cited the fact that while Filipinos were not citizens of the United States they were subject to the American courts. Commissioner Lurton, however, ruled that the court had official knowledge of such a law being passed and dismissed the charge.

The full text of the new citizenship law, just received by THE CHINA PRESS, is as follows:

(Public—No 346—67th Congress)
(H. R. 12022.)

An Act Relative to the naturalisation and citizenship of married women:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the right of any woman to become a naturalised citizen of the United States shall not be denied or abridged because of her sex or because she is a married woman.

Sec. 2. That any woman who marries a citizen of the United States after the passage of this Act, or any woman whose husband is naturalised after the passage of this Act, shall not become a citizen of the United States by reason of such marriage or naturalisation; but, if eligible to citizenship, she may be naturalised upon full and complete compliance with all requirements of the naturalisation laws, with the following exceptions:

(a) No declaration of intention shall be required;

(b) In lieu of the five-year period of residence within the United States and the one-year period of residence within the State or Territory where the naturalisation court is held, she shall have resided continuously in the United States, Hawaii, Alaska, or Porto Rico for at least one year immediately preceding the filing of the petition.

Sec. 3. That a woman citizen of the United States shall not cease to be a citizen of the United States by reason of her marriage after the passage of this Act, unless she makes a formal renunciation of her citizenship before a court having jurisdiction over naturalisation of aliens: Provided, That any woman citizen who marries an alien ineligible to citizenship shall cease to be a citizen of the United States. If at the termination of the marital status she is a citizen of the United States she shall retain her citizenship regardless of her residence. If during the continuance of the marital status she resides continuously for two years in a foreign State of which her husband is a citizen or subject, or for five years continuously outside the United States, she shall thereafter be subject to the same presumption as is a naturalised citizen of the United States under the second paragraph of section 2 of the Act entitled "An Act in reference to the expatriation of citizens and their protection abroad," approved March 2, 1907. Nothing herein shall be construed to repeal or amend the provisions of Revised Statutes 1999 or of section 2 of the Expatriation Act of 1907 with reference to expatriation.

Sec. 4. That a woman who, before the passage of this Act, has lost her United States citizenship by reason of her marriage to an alien eligible for citizenship, may be naturalised as provided by section 2 of this Act: Provided, That no certificate of arrival shall be required to be filed with her petition if during the continuance of the marital status she shall have resided within the United States. After her naturalisation she shall have the same citizenship status as if her marriage had taken place after the passage of this Act.

Sec. 5. That no woman whose husband is not eligible to citizenship shall be naturalised during the continuance of the marital status.

Sec. 6. That section 1994 of the Revised Statutes and section 4 of the Expatriation Act of 1907 are repealed. Such repeal shall not terminate citizenship acquired or retained under either of such sections nor restore citizenship lost under section 4 of the Expatriation Act of 1907.

Sec. 7. That section 3 of the Expatriation Act of 1907 is repealed. Such repeal shall not restore citizenship lost under such section nor terminate citizenship resumed under such section. A woman who has resumed under such section citizenship lost by marriage shall, upon the passage of this Act, have for all purposes the same citizenship status as immediately preceding her marriage.

Approved, September 22, 1922.

CHUCHOW VISITED BY FIRES; SCORES MADE HOMELESS

Thatched Huts In Center Of City Burn, Child Is Victim

(China Press Correspondence)

Chuchow, Anhwei Province, December 4.—Chuchow has been visited by the worst fire the city has had for twenty-five years, it not since the Taiping Rebellion. The Confucian Temple is situated just to one side of the heart of the city. On either side of the Temple is a wide strip of land belonging to the Temple. Upon this poor people have been allowed to build their thatched houses No one seemed to think of the danger these buildings are to the entire city, for they make a solid block of buildings right up to the tiled roofs on the principal street. They have had so few fires of any consequence here that the city people thought such a thing could not happen.

A week ago, when a high wind was blowing a careless cook set fire to his kitchen and the wind did the rest. The wind drove the fire towards the Temple and the firemen fought on either side of it. The Temple walls finally stopped its onward sweep. As if this were not enough two ways later a small child playing with matches started a second fire and a dozen more families were burned out, one child being burned to death.

RELIEF FOR SUFFERERS

The various city organisations at once took steps for the relief of the sufferers. They have been housed in another temple and a temporary kitchen is feeding them. Subscriptions have been taken both for the sufferers and to equip the city with better fire fighting apparatus.

A month ago Ma Lien Chia was made Tu-li of the Province and took over the reins of office in Pengpu. His first job was to drive back the hosts of ex-soldiers and tu-fei who invaded the Province from Honan. Then he proceeded to pay off the former Anhwei soldiers, who were stationed in Pengpu and along the Tientsin-Pukow R. R., and send them back to their homes in Shantung.

We pity Shantung. It left certain sections along the line without protection. Around Mingkwong and towards Sui-hsien they seem to grow an annual crop of robbers. This year these have not called for money but have carried away prominent country land owners and demanded ransom for them. At least one unransomed land owner lost his life because the large sum demanded was not immediately paid over.

SOLDIERS AND OPIUM

The Chuchow city soldiers have not yet been disbanded and so were called on to go up and police the infected section. It leaves the city with less soldiers than we have had for years. It is quite a grateful change, though the soldiers have an excellent commander who has kept them in good order. The worst they have done was to import plenty of opium. They were recently called upon to go into the west country and put down robbery there. The robbers decamped before they arrived but the soldiers found a good market for their opium in towns not yet reached by the robbers. Between the very scant crop of rice, the numerous robbers on every side of us, the opium smuggling and finally this disastrous fire the district looks forward to a hard winter.

Mickey Walker Wins In Fifteen-Round Decision Battle From Jack Britton

New York, Nov. 10.—Mickey Walker, that rugged-little Irishman of Elizabeth, N. J., is now welter-weight champion boxer of the world. Michael gave Jack Britton an awful beating throughout the entire journey and there was no hesitancy at the end when the officials declared in favor of the Jerseyite. Youth had to be served and poor old Britton had to yield his title to a kid who was in his swaddling clothes when Britton first started his pugilistic career.

Poor Jack Britton, the old champion, tarried in the center of the ring while the crowd gave him probably the greatest reception that ever was accorded a fallen champion. Britton refused to be consoled. He slunk off from his pals and handlers, scurried to his dressing room.

Three times during the bitter conflict Jack was pounded to the floor by his youthful opponent. In the second round when Jack was upset for the first time he was too proud to take a count but it was apparent then that Jack's doom was sealed and that the title that he had treasured these many years was slipping from his grasp.

In the tenth round Britton was battered down to the floor and only the bell saved him from a knockout at that stage. The old champion was down again in the twelfth round for a count, but he regained his feet with only a stout heart and a great fighting head managed to stave off the ripping smashing Walker. It was a wonderful fight and surely did not warrant the suspicion entertained by the boxing commissioners that the fight was to be one of those queer things. So sure was the commission that the fight was fixed that they called off all bets. However, Jack and Mickey put up a wonderful exhibition.

BRITTON NOT DISGRACED

While Britton relinquished the title he was in no way disgraced. No champion fought harder to retain his title, and at the end the cheers were for old Jack Britton the hero of more than 500 battles.

Britton weighed 146 pounds, while Walker scaled 144.

Patsy Haley served as referee.

In the first round Walker set out to make the pace. He kept tearing into Britton and the latter had to exercise every trick he knew to keep the Irishman off. However, Mickey had everything to gain with the championship in sight, and he took every chance. He refused to back up when Jack kept shooting lefts and rights to the face.

On the contrary, Walker soon had Jack on the ropes in jeopardy. He showered the old champion with everything in the book, and they had not gone very far when Jack appeared to be very much worried. The second round was all Walker's. The third, fourth and fifth belonged to Britton, where all through, with his old-time skill, it looked like Walker was about to be taken. It was only a flash, however, on Britton's part. Nature was exacting its toll. Old Britton had gone in once too often. The very next round he was helpless in the hands of the youthful scrapper from New Jersey.

YOUTH WINS OVER AGE

There was no denying that Walker's youthful energy carried him through every scrimmage, while Jack was getting weaker every step. The body punching dealt out by Walker was more than Jack could stand. He reeled repeatedly, and when he sank to the floor each time under the rain of blows it did not seem he could survive to remain the entire trip, and only gave way when his strength gave out and had to hand the welter-weight championship over to the more youthful Mickey.

sive, each scoring a touchdown in the final quarter. It was McKee's field goal for the Army in the second period that finally furnished the margin that beat the Navy. The Middies scored first, pushing across a touchdown in the second quarter. This was followed by McKee's kick in the same period. The Army went into the lead in the third quarter by scoring a touchdown and held this advantage through the final quarter, in which both teams made touchdowns.

ALABAMA HAS CLAIM

Smythe and Wood played stellar games for West Point. It was the superior forward passing game that won for the Army.

In the Big Ten Conference the principal games resulted as follows: Michigan 16, Minnesota 7; Iowa 37, Northwestern 3; Wisconsin 0, Chicago 0; Ohio State 6, Illinois 3.

In the Missouri Valley Conference, the Nebraska-Ames contest was won by the Cornhuskers easily, 54 to 6.

Alabama strengthened its claim to the leadership of the South by defeating Georgia, 10 to 3.

FOOTBALL IN JAPAN

The Nagoya Football Club's association team won the national trophy and the championship of Japan by defeating the Hiroshima Higher Normal School, 1 to 0, at Ikebukuro. The lone score came near the middle of the final half, being counted by Kuroda, left inside wing, after a pass from Sakakura.

Nagoya defeated Osaka, 2 to 1, and Hiroshima defeated Tokio, 3 to 1, in the semi-finals. Provided that Nagoya is not defeated by a challenging team, the victorious players will represent Japan in the Far Eastern Games at Osaka next spring.

British Supreme Court

At the British Supreme Court yesterday, before Acting Judge Peter Grain, the case of C. F. A. O. Ingenohl v. Wing On and Co. (Shanghai) was mentioned.

The plaintiff asked for an injunction to restrain the defendants from selling or causing to be sold or otherwise of disposing or dealing in any cigars known as El Cometa del Oriente and Imperio del Mundo and La Perla del Oriente cigars respectively, other than those which have been manufactured by the plaintiff and from affixing or causing or allowing to be fixed any labels, wrappers, brands or trade marks used by the plaintiff to distinguish and denote the said three brands of cigars as having been manufactured by him to any box of cigars bought or sold or attempted to be sold by the defendants except to those boxes of cigars which have been manufactured by the plaintiff and also from using the said words El Cometa del Oriente and Imperio del Mondo and La Perla del Oriente or any one of them on any cigars or boxes or wrappings containing cigars which have not been manufactured by the plaintiff.

Mr. Langley Smith appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. R. F. S. Gregson represented the defendants.

Mr. Langley Smith said the case had been set down for the return day that day but he would like the case to be adjourned sine die. The reason for his application was that an action had already been commenced against another firm of cigar dealers in the Mixed Court. The petition in that case was filed on November 23 and counsel had ascertained from the Mixed Court that morning that the summons was served on Saturday morning. He would suggest that it would not be wise to have two actions proceeding simultaneously.

The Judge: The same parties?

Mr. Langley Smith: No, my lord. Against a Chinese hong in the Mixed Court, but for the same thing and for exactly the same matter. The same questions of law are involved. The case has been under discussion in the Hongkong Court and has occupied a considerable time—a fortnight, he believed.

Mr. Gregson did not see how any application in another Court would affect in any way that Court. The writ had been filed and served and it seemed to him to be the proper course for the case to proceed. He would ask for pleadings.

The Judge said the same thing was passing through his mind. One could see no reason why pleadings should not be ordered.

Mr. Langley Smith did not suggest that any decision arrived at the Mixed Court would affect the British Court, but the action was a purely technical one. The result of that action would be that he might not proceed with the one in the British Court. As his client would not be here under a month, from Hongkong, he would ask for a special order to be made for pleadings to be ordered within a month.

The Judge declined to do so, but granted the ordinary time for pleadings, with the understanding that application could be made by counsel for an extension of time.

Express Derailed By Plotters, Belief

(China Press Service)

Peking, Nov. 29.—The Chinese Eastern Express from Harbin to Manchuli was wrecked near Tsitsihar on the night of November 22. The engine and four coaches turned turtle and fell into the ditch killing one man and injuring fourteen others.

Suspicion attaches itself to the cause of the wreck. Two of the outer rails on a sharp curve were systematically removed. The rails and bolts were all left behind showing that theft of the materials was not the cause. The culprits selected a good spot as it was the apex of a long curve at which point the train was running down grade. Moreover, just about one hour before the express was wrecked, a freight train passed over the rails proving that the rails were taken up during the interval.

The Railway authorities state that they do not think it was the work of the Hunghutze since their only object would have been robbery but nothing of that sort was attempted. Hence they feel that all of the circumstances point to a plot by certain parties to cause trouble for the Railway Administration.

Krassin Sees Good Prospect For Trade

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Nov. 30.—In an article in the Economic Life on the prospects of foreign trade for the coming economic year, M. Krassin, People's Commissar of Foreign Trade, refers to the rapid development of co-operation with foreign capital through the mixed corporations in which the Russian Government participates.

He mentions that the Hamburg-America Line, the General Electric Company, Siemens, Stinnes, Vickers, and Wolff are working on this basis or negotiating for the formation of such corporations. He adds, however, that the real obstacles to development are not economic but political, and that only the formal recognition of Soviet Russia can create a satisfactory basis for all parties concerned, which would enable the rapid extension of this line of enterprise.

State Department Issues Denial Of Oil Rumor

(China Press Service)

Washington, Dec. 2.—The State Department today issued a sweeping denial of the charges by Europe that she is maintaining her position in regard to the Lausanne conference for the purpose of obtaining greater oil concessions in Palestine for the Standard Oil Company. Europeans papers came out yesterday with the statement that the United States was pursuing her present course of action simply to secure the holdings which now belong to the Dutch Shell Company's and other British Oil concerns.

Attack Foreign Language Act

(China Press Service)

Washington, Dec. 2.—The Iowa Foreign Language Act, which prohibits the use of any language except English in the State Schools in all grades below the eighth, is being attacked very vigorously from several sides, and Augustus Artels has even brought the case before the Superior Court. It is said that there are a number of similar cases pending in the courts, among them cases from Ohio and Nebraska.

Corset-Trouser's Correct Garb For Males, Decree

(China Press Service)

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The correctly garbed man of the next few months will wear trousers with a corset effect, delegates to the National Clothiers' convention asserted here today, and exhibited models to prove it. A pliable belt permanently attached to each side of the trousers and drawn around and fastened in front gives the corset effect. The back is unsupported by the belt.

Norfolk coats with corset effect belts and a top coat provided with an effective yoke will be popular, the clothiers said.

Palestine Regime Attacked By Lords

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 4.—In the House of Lords today Lord Islington made a strong attack on the system of Government in Palestine and urged legislation whereby "the present Zionist system of administration of Palestine," which, he asserted, was positively detested by the Arabs, who formed an overwhelming proportion of the population, would be substituted by a system nearly approximating a national form of government.

This modified policy would financially relieve both the British and the Palestinians.

Mexicans Murder American Oil Men

(Reuter's Service)

Mexico City, Dec. 4.—Mr. Wercker, the British superintendent of the Oil Aguila Oil Camp at Vera Cruz, has been kidnapped by bandits and is being held for ransom of 10,000 pesos.

The bandits ambushed and killed two Americans in the same camp on the following day.

French Mission To Syria Returns

(British Press Service)

Marseilles, Oct. 23.—The French Economic Mission to Syria returned here today after investigating agricultural, industrial and commercial prospects in the regions under French mandate.

In an interview the Abbe Wetterle, deputy for the Haut Rhin, contrasted the administrations in Syria and Palestine.

France, he said, was carrying out in Syria the same civilising mission as Marshal Lyautey was carrying out in Morocco. But the British Administration in Palestine was unpopular and the native role in the Government was negligible.

The Abbe did not think that Zionism would succeed in Palestine. Most of the 45,000 Jews now in the Holy Land, he said, were from Galicia or were refugees from Russia.

In Hospital After 7,000 Mile 'Hike'

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 4.—The Calcutta correspondent of the Times telegraphs that Brigadier-General Sir George Pereira has arrived there from Peking via Lhasa and gone to a nursing-home, where he will remain in bed two or three weeks. He will then proceed to Delhi. He has covered over 7,000 miles, of which he walked nearly a half. He suffered from clots of blood in the left calf, which, however, never deterred his progress.

Interviewed, Sir George Pereira said that the journey had occupied nearly two years. He had traversed a great part of West China and the whole of East Tibet.

The journey had been perfectly peaceful, even in the two worst brigand-infested provinces of China, Shensi and Szechuan. All he had to do had been to inform the Magistrate, who arranged with the brigands that he should not be attacked.

He had been welcomed everywhere and had been permitted to enter Lhasa, where he was the guest of the Commander-in-Chief and met the Dalai Lama.

Peking's Envoy At London Pleads For Modernised China

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 4.—Speaking at the annual dinner at Cambridge last evening of the Chinese Students' Society, Mr. Chu Chao-hsin, the Chinese Charge d'Affaires, said that unfortunately China had been going backward in science since the new civilisation arose in the nineteenth century.

Her old inventions, he said, such as the compass and gunpowder, had been improved by modern science. The Chinese today had learned new things from the Western countries. They were Westernising China but on Eastern lines. China, he continued had to carry out a great task of development and education, for which peace and tranquility were essential.

They might not be able to realise their aim in a few brief years for it had taken centuries to build up the England of today. Therefore, Mr. Chu declared in conclusion, students should be tolerant and energetic, serve the Fatherland with their foreign education and help to make China as orderly and prosperous as England.

Tokio Bank Shuts Doors; Mob Gathers

(China Press Service)

Tokio, Nov. 30.—This morning notices were posted on the doors of the Tokio Osaka Sekiden Ginco Banking House at Tokio and on those of its eleven branches throughout Japan that they would be closed and that all payments will be temporarily suspended. Investigations proved that the cause of the banking house's failure was unfortunate and hasty investment in industrial shares.

The deposits in the Nippon Sekiden Ginco Bank run into several hundred millions of yen and its failure is being greatly felt throughout the nation. Panic reigned when the bank failed to open up this morning at the usual hour, and it was necessary to call the police to disperse the mobs who gathered in the streets surrounding the building.

Robber Pays With Life At Sungkiang

(China Press Correspondence)

Sungkiang, Ku, Nov. 29.—The execution took place of a robber who was caught over a year ago in this place. This man was living in a shop in the city when caught and at the same time the shop keeper was imprisoned for housing the robber and his family. It was understood at the time that the shop keeper would not be executed but simply serve a sentence in prison.

The fate of the robber was sealed at once but the sentence was withheld until today. At two o'clock the prisoner was escorted by a group of armed police to the execution grounds which was near the tomb of General Ward, inside the city walls. A few squads of soldiers were also on the grounds and the bullets soon did their work.

A thousand people or more gathered there within a few minutes but few could get close enough to satisfy their curiosity. The body was quickly thrown into a rough pine box and carried to a spot nearby where a hole was made and a few shovelfuls of dirt were thrown over the box.

The Sungkiang Electric Light Company are installing their new generators and we hope to have light within a few months which will serve instead of lamps. The present current needs support from kerosene.

This week end several distinguished visitors were in the city. Bishop S. R. Hay (M. E. Church, South), and wife and daughter; Dr. Pinson, (Secretary, Board of Missions in America) and his wife; and Miss Howell (another Secretary Board of Missions in America), were in Sungkiang to look over the Southern Methodist Church here. They left this morning for Huchow where they will be over Thanksgiving. Dr. Pinson, his wife and Miss Howell leave for Korea the 20th of December, according to present plans. Bishop Hay is resident Bishop in China now and lives in Shanghai.

Law To Explain Status Of Warships

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 4.—In the House of Commons today Viscount Curzon, Member for Battersea, drew attention to the fact that the two new capital ships authorised by Parliament must be laid down under the Washington Agreement by December 31. He asked whether orders had yet been given.

Mr. Bonar Law replied that a statement in that connection would be made before the House rose. The Government was considering the question as to the desirability of spending money on them. He was unable to promise that the opinion of the House in that connection would be invited.

Chinese At Canton Demand Indemnity For Slain At Macao

Hongkong, Nov. 29.—The Daily Press quotes the following from a Canton paper:

While representatives of Chinese labor unions are still pow-wowing on behalf of forty of their fellow countrymen needlessly shot by Portuguese police at Macao last May, when the Chinese were trying to avenge a wrong committed by Portuguese soldiers on a Chinese girl, the recent informal conversation between the Canton and the Macao authorities on the matter has not yet had any official conclusion.

The Chinese labor represenatives are asking Macao to compensate the fifty or more labor societies recently dissolved by order of the Macao Government in connection with the case, each organisation calling for a thousand dollars damages, besides eight to ten thousand dollars to the central labor union. They also have called upon the Macao Government to provide at least a thousand dollars for each of the forty Chinese shot, and two to six hundred dollars for each of the score of men wounded during the indiscriminate shooting by the Portuguese. Before the Chinese laborers return to their several occupations in Macao, they expect the Portuguese will erect proper pavilions, about three, for them to make sacrifice to the dead.

(China Press Service)

Peking, Dec. 4.—In the House of Representatives, two important proposals were made this afternoon. The first was to impeach the Vice-Minister of Justice and the Chief of the Metropolitan Procuratorate for their alleged failure to dispense justice in connection with the bribery charges preferred against Mr. Lo Wen-kan, Minister of Finance, and to request the Government to organise a special court for the trial of the case.

The second proposal was to oppose the increase in the telegraphic and postal rates as was recently ordered by the Ministry of Communications and to demand the cancellation of the new imports.

H'kong Shivvers As Mercury Drops To 63 Above Zero

(China Press Service)

Hongkong, Nov. 27. — The extraordinary fall of temperature on Saturday night and Sunday morning, says a Hongkong paper, took most people by surprise. A drop of something like thirty degrees within 24 hours occurred, for the lowest temperature recorded by the Observatory on Saturday was 63 degrees, whereas early risers on the Peak, on Sunday morning, shuddered to find the "Stephen's Ink" thermometer at the tram station recording 35 degrees.

At this time Kowloon thermometers were showing 49 degrees. At 10 a.m. the Upper Tram Station was experiencing 38 degrees and the lower one 55 degrees. The cause of the sudden change in the weather is a N.N.E. gale in the Formosa Channel and it is to be feared that sampans in that vicinity had a bad time on Saturday night.

Spot and forward bar silver were each unchanged in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 64⅝ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 454¼.

Our official Sterling rate this morning was fixed at 3-1⅜, the Gold Dollar rate at 71½, the Yen rate at 68¼ and the Franc rate at 1020.

Our market here today opened steady, became firm in the course of the morning but eased off again in the afternoon.

At one time business in Sterling was done at 3s. 2¼d. for December, 3s. 2⅛d. January and 3s. 2⅛d. February-March. Gold Dollars were done as high as 72½ for December delivery and 72⅝ for forward. These were the highest rates at which business was done and later in the day speculators who heretofore had been sellers became small buyers, the result was the market eased off and at the close there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3s. 2d. for December-January delivery, 3s. 1⅞d. February and 3s. 1 11/16d. March.

There were no sellers of Gold Dollars at the close at better than 72⅛ December and 72¼ for forward delivery.

There were sellers of Yen at 67⅝ and buyers at 67½.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis, esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid powe of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr KINGMAN to the subscribers consist in:—
(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly.
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

World Demand For Silk Encourages Producers In China To Greater Effort

BY DAVID ARAKIE
(Financial Editor)

American activities and interests in China's raw silk have already been quickened in the last few years among far-sighted manufacturers, who now recognise the need for an increased raw silk supply to keep pace with increasing consumption. Increased world production of raw silk, it is felt, can be secured more quickly by the encouragement of Chinese farmers in increasing and improving their crops of cocoons. As a part of the movement for the improvement of Chinese raw silk, funds had been contributed by the members of the Silk Association of America for the erection of a sericultural building at the Canton Christian College. The necessity for the production of better cocoons is emphasised always. Until that is done on a larger scale the quality of China's silk can never be what it should be.

It is understood that Mr. James A. Goldsmith, President of the Silk Association of America, will shortly be making a tour of inspection in China in the interests of the silk industry of America. Mr. Henry Dougherty, a member of the board of managers of the Association, who has been in Shanghai in connection with the silk conditioning house here, will accompany Mr. Goldsmith on the tour. This will begin shortly after the International Silk Exposition ends in New York next February. The purpose of the mission, it is stated, is a better business understanding between American consumers and Chinese sellers.

HEAVY PRODUCTION

The eighteen provinces of China produce at present some 60 million gold worth of silk while Japan boasts five times that production. This is an irony of fate for China at one time outranked Japan in raw silk production. It is only by the application of scientific methods that Japan has succeeded in wresting from China the premier position she held as silk producer.

The industry can be made a greater producer of wealth by the careful study of mulberry tree and other food for the silkworms, careful study of the most productive worms and of those producing the best quality of silk, a well-conducted silk filature and distribution of information to the growers of silkworms as to the best methods of producing silk.

The present Shanghai silk season has been a highly profitable one to the farmers for supplies have gone forth abroad rapidly, almost denuding the local market of all visible stocks. The crop has been a better one than last year and the demand has been exceptionally good with the result that practically ninety percent of the whole crop has already been either sold or contracted for. Record prices have been fetched for the raw commodity, and the agriculturists have experienced an era of unexampled prosperity. It is almost certain that a shortage in raw silk supplies to fill manufacturers' needs will develop next month, for supplies are scanty in all the consuming centers. Under the circumstances it is hardy surprising that raw silk prices have been advancing, and although present prices for steam filature are higher than last year buyers abroad apparently realise that it is better to buy at the present high price and smile, or miss the opportunity and buy later on at higher prices and squirm.

SUPPLIES SHORT

It is not only that supplies of raw silk in Shanghai will be short. From the stocks of raw silk at Yokohama it appears that there will be a shortage, assuming that the relation between supply and demand till the next season is maintained on the average of previous months. It is almost certain that before the end of the season there is going to be a world-wide shortage of raw silk, and supplies that remain unsold by then should fetch much higher prices than raw silk commands today. The world's supply of raw silk is computed at about 24 million pounds of which China is responsible for 11 million pounds. There is the fear that if the price of raw silk is pushed up to very dizzy heights artificial silk will come in demand as a substitute.

While it is admitted that the Chinese must improve the quality of their production, it must not be forgotten that in a country torn by political strife and where the government is not stable enough to prevent lawlessness, local industries cannot be expected to thrive and make improvements. It is a surprise that the Chinese silk farmers have been able to accomplish what they have. They seem now to be more responsive to new methods and the stolid and stupid opposition that they have in the past offered all schemes for improvement is dying out slowly.

The American Silk Association at times takes great kudos upon itself for the improvement already achieved, but in fairness one must point out that but for the work of the Shanghai silk houses the progress achieved would have been very slow. It was they who had done the pioneer work for many years. As they had hoed the ground and helped to cultivate it, it is but meet that a word of praise should be given to these Shanghai silk merchants.

57 FACTORIES

In Shanghai and its vicinity at present there are some 57 raw silk factories with about 15,000 basins. Though the annual output is rather difficult to learn, the production in Shanghai and the vicinity is confined chiefly to white filature raw silk with a very few white hand filature. There is room for great improvement of the silk produced in Shanghai and the output of 20,000 piculs white filature and about 5,000 in the vicinity of Shanghai can be increased with an effort.

There has of late been a great deal of controversy in the American papers on the subject of the Shanghai Silk Testing House. The Shanghai Testing House, as many know, was established for the purpose of developing transactions between China raw silk producers and American silk manufacturers. As the raw silk industry grows in China the advantages of the conditioning house will be appreciated both by the Chinese sellers of raw silk and the foreign firms that buy the product from them. It is a matter of regret that it should have come to a critical period, for the American manufacturers maintain that the movement they had initiated is being opposed. There has been some antagonism aroused between the Shanghai Testing House (a branch of the United States Testing Company) and the Foreign Silk Association of Canton.

URGES DEVELOPMENT

The silk journals of America have been recently publishing correspondence that passed between Mr. Charles Cheny, the past president of the American Silk Association, and the Foreign Silk Association. His view is that it is absolutely essential for a full development of the Shanghai field that we should have more modern methods, and the establishment of a testing house would, in his opinion, entire laying the foundation for a healthy development. With this belief few would be inclined to argue, but it is questionable whether for some time to come the Shanghai Testing House should act in any capacity even approaching the position of an arbitrary functionary in dealings between Chinese and Americans in raw silk. This view is supported in many quarters and in this instance we can cite "Silk," a publication that carries weight with the industry, which not long ago stated:

"China can find a ready market in Europe for the greatest part of her production at the present time and European buyers are apparently content to go ahead, relying entirely upon their own inspectors when purchasing China raw silk, and the very large increase in shipments to Europe and larger decrease in shipments to America this season as compared to last year bear this out."

American Trade With Orient Shows 100 Percent Boost

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Nov. 1.—The New York Journal Of Commerce states that the sales of American manufactures in the Orient continue to grow in spite of the efforts of foreign rivals to check the demand for the product of American factories which developed in that part of the world during the war period.

Merchandise sent from the United States to the Orient, says the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York, formed only 8 percent of the total exports in the year preceding the war but the share has steadily increased year by year and now forms 15 per cent of the total exports of that part of the calendar year 1922, for which there is a record. And practically all of this merchandise which America sends to that part of the world consists of manufactures.

Bernstein Play Astonishes Paris

(China Press Service)

Paris, Oct. 13.—Over £1,000 was raised last night at the gala performance at the Gymnase of Judith, the remarkable Biblical play of M. Henry Bernstein, on behalf of French scientific institutions. In addition, Mme. Simone abandons her cachet and M. Bernstein his royalty as author.

This morning all the French dramatic critics discuss the performance at the repetition generale at great length. Most of them hail the tragedy as the most notable contribution to theatrical art for ten years, though there is also a good deal of rather savage criticism.

New Bank Note Issue

BY THE NATIONAL COMMERCIAL BANK, SHANGHAI.

This is to announce that on December 1st, 1922 we will issue our own Bank Notes with denominations of One Dollar, Five Dollars and Ten Dollars.

Our right of note issue was conferred upon us by the Imperial Board of Finance and Board of Agriculture, Industry and Commerce in the Thirty-third year of KWAN-HSU (1907). It was extended by the National Currency Bureau on January 6th, 1921 and approved by the Ministry of Finance.

Against this note issue, there is created and set aside a special Note Reserve Fund, entirely distinct from the general funds of our Banking Department.

The Notes are payable in cash at par upon presentation at our Bank.

Opening of a Circus

After having spent a great deal of money, we have succeeded in getting a certain number of bulls that have already arrived in Shanghai; so we shall be able to give the Shanghai public very enjoyable entertainments.

These bulls are absolutely different from the average run of those that are usually shown to the public in other countries at the "Course of Corridas."

All fittings up will be terminated in a few days' time, and the opening will take place on the 8th of December, 1922.

Beside the numbers in which the bulls will take part, there will be numerous attractions that have never yet taken place in Shanghai.

All, Men and Women, the Europeans as well as the Chinese, are welcome.

This Circus is situated on the grounds known as the "Rockfeller Foundation" South to the Rue de l'Observatoire.

The China Trade Act

INCREASED American participation in the industrialisation of China to such an extent that American firms will approximate in number those of Great Britain and Japan is predicted by Mr. Julius Klein, Director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Mr. Klein's optimistic forecast is based on the logical assumption that in the past American firms have labored under a tremendous disadvantage as compared to British and Japanese firms, but that with the passage of the China Trade Act, which allows American firms here partial or total exemption from the American income taxes, and which allows almost complete Chinese ownership of American companies—providing merely that a majority of the directors shall be Americans—Americans have a new and effective medium for spreading out commercially and financially in China.

With such a stimulus it is expected that numerous new American firms will be attracted to China where it will now be possible for them to do business on a firm, solid, healthy foundation, and that a large amount of Chinese capital will also be invested in American enterprises. As Mr. Klein points out the China Trade Act makes it possible for American firms to be formed with Chinese capital, and as the Chinese have a sincere respect for the stability of American business under American laws it is only natural to assume that such capital will be immediately forthcoming.

There is in China a tremendous amount of universal capital A great part of such capital has been lying idle because of the apparent ... immethodic Chinese Government and the fear that it would be an unprofitable gamble to invest in China when a changed government, a new tuchun, a bandit raid, or other possible act might destroy the investment and cause a loss of the money so invested.

Under the China Trade Act such Chinese capital can be invested in China concerns with complete safety. Mr. Klein points out one noteworthy example. Highly competent American engineers will be able to form American companies with little American capital and develop the untold potentialities of mining, railroads and other engineering undertakings in China not only with the investment insured by the United States Government, but with every possibility of exceptional financial remuneration in their favor. Such a combination of American engineering brains and Chinese capital has untold possibilities, and gives good reason for the optimism of Mr. Klein and other competent observers.

The optimistic note for the future of China commercially is, in fact, one of the outstanding features not only of businessmen in America, but in other countries. An increase in American business in China would, of course, mean that China's commerce with Great Britain, France and other countries would also increase, because increased commercial, engineering and financial undertakings in China would necessarily cause Chinese capital to become more fluid and flow toward those countries as well as toward the United States. The United States cannot provide everything that China needs, despite its highly developed industrial organisation, and a large portion of the greatly increased business resulting from the industrialisation of China would naturally be directed to British, French, Japanese and other channels with a consequent beneficial effect to all concerned.

It is with regard to such basic and fundamental conditions that Mr. Klein, Sir Edwin Stockton and others of various nationalities are voicing optimistic predictions concerning China's future. Sir Edwin Stockton in a recent address at Manchester said that it appeared that China was returning to normal, commercially speaking, and in such an assertion he is we think correct. Unpleasant political occurrences have retarded, and perhaps still will retard, business to a certain extent, but it is such fundamental correctives as the China Trade Act, which goes back of, or beneath, political upheavals, that insure for China a prosperous and healthy commercial future.

How British Business Dictates British Policy

These days when we on this side of the Atlantic are wondering why the British Government is led to take some of the steps it does, it is interesting to note an eminent British authority on business declaring that "the British people have an unwritten national policy just as they have an unwritten Constitution." This policy, continues Mr. Herbert N. Casson, in a London letter to the Philadelphia Public Ledger, "has been developed by the necessities of trade and commerce, rather than by Prime Ministers and generals." This British policy, continues the writer, "has never been officially made known, but it is in the background of every business man's mind" and might be expressed as follows:

Britain is the workshop of the world.

It lives by foreign trade.

Therefore, to secure and hold markets it must invest money abroad, acquire colonies and control the seas.

Debts must be paid.

The gold standard must be maintained.

Forms of Government do not matter.

Law and order must be established and revolutions put down.

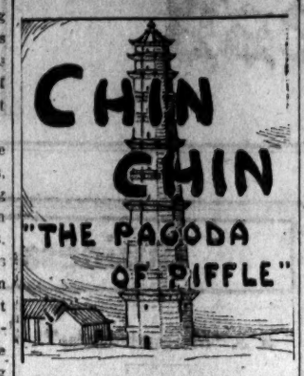
The world must be made safe, not for democracy; for that is only a word; but for trade and commerce.

Here, Mr. Casson tells us in the Philadelphia paper, is "the national policy of the British people, both Liberals and Conservatives," which "forms the back-ground of all British thinking." It is not openly stated, since in England "it is not considered good form to shout one's beliefs from the house-tops." But—

In quiet evening talks among business associates and in directors' meetings, Englishmen relax and say what they really believe.

There are 75,000 joint stock companies in Britain, and they have directors' meetings once a month. So there are at least 75,000 meetings a month, secret and unreported, and it is at these meetings that British business opinion is best shaped and expressed.

Going on to tell us what English business men are thinking, Mr. Casson points out that as far as cancellation of war debts is concerned, the only pro-cancellation articles that have appeared in the London papers have been written by Americans, while "not one British Chamber of Commerce or Trade Association has passed a resolution in favor of the cancellation of debts." England "has creditor instincts," and "can think of no other way of getting rid of debts except paying them off." Eventually, "so most Englishmen think, there will be a conference on the adjustment of international obligations."



Mr. A. Dumb Bunny, our social secretary, is taking all applications for those who desire the job of riding on the radiator of our car and waving a red flag in conformity with the American 'blue laws.' Only good wavers need apply.

They had just been married three weeks, and she, certain that the cook couldn't turn out a proper pound cake and knowing that lover-luv'ums just doted on pound cake, baked one herself.

"How do you like the pound cake?" she murmured sweetly when the 'boy' had left the room.

Harry

Wilson And His Cabinet

A series of history-making letters describing the American war cabinet and giving an intimate picture of Woodrow Wilson as he appeared while presiding over the secret meeting of his official family, have just been made public for the first time. The letters, written by the late Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior in the cabinet of President Wilson from 1913 to 1920, have been collected and edited by his widow, Anne Wintermute Lane, and have been published by Houghton Miffin company. The volume is just off the press.

The correspondence reveals, among other things, how the President frequently lost patience with the tremendous problems confronting him, and how at other times discouragement crowded him to such a dregee that he was prompted to turn bitterly upon his advisers when they failed to agree with him.

The letters give a description of Mr. Wilson's attitude on preparedness before America entered the war; tell how he regarded the proposal to arm merchant ships; describe his opposition to anything approaching the "code duello" spirit at a time when the United States was neutral, and then, great questions were pressing for decision; tell how he encouraged his cabinet to talk of trivialities while he went along on his own course to solve the huge problems facing his administration.

WAS DECIDEDLY NEUTRAL

"The President said that he didn't wish to see either side win—for both had been equally indifferent to the rights of neutrals," Mr. Lane wrote to his brother on February 17, 1917, commenting on a particularly animated cabinet discussion.

On the subject of preparedness, even before the United States entered the war, Mr. Lane quoted President Wilson as being "not in sympathy." Writing again to his brother, February 16, 1917, Mr. Lane said:

"At our dinner to the President last night he said he was not in sympathy with any great preparedness—that Europe would be mad and money-poor by the end of the war," continued Mr. Lane. Then he added a few observations of his own.

"The army and the navy are so set and stereotyped and stand-pat that I am almost hopeless as to moving them to the wise, large and wholesome job," he wrote. "They are governed by red tape worse than any union. The chief of staff fell asleep at our meeting today. Mars and Morpheus in one."

WRANGLE OVER REMARKS

Again to his brother, February 25, Secretary Lane wrote:

"On Friday we had one of the most animated sessions of the cabinet that I suppose has ever been held under this or any other President. It all arose out of a very innocent question of mine as to whether it was true that the wives of American consuls on leaving Germany had been stripped naked, given an acid bath to detect writing on their flesh, and subjected to other indignities.

"Lansing answered that it was true. Then I asked Houston about the bread riots in New York. This led to a discussion of the great problem which we had all been afraid to raise—why shouldn't we send our ships out with guns and convoys? Daniels said we must not convoy—that would be dangerous. (Think of a secretary of the navy telling of danger.) The President said the country was not willing that we should take any such sentiment out of the country . . . This the President took as a suggestion that we should work up a propaganda of hatred against Germany. Of course, I said that I had no such idea, but I felt that in a democracy the people were entitled to know the facts. McAdoo, Houston and Redfield joined me. The President turned on them bitterly, especially on McAdoo, and reproached all of us with appealing to the spirit of the "code duello." We couldn't get the idea out of his head that we were bent on pushing the country into war. Houston talked of resiguing after the meeting. McAdoo will—within a year, I believe. I tried to smooth them down by recalling our past experiences with the President. We have had to push and push to get him to take any forward step. He comes out right but he is slower than a glacier—and things are mighty disagreeable whenever anything has to be done . . .

CABINET MEETING INCIDENTS

In addition to his voluminous correspondence, which included letters to virtually every person of importance in the United States, Mr. Lane made many notes on incidents occurring in his daily life. Among these were copious comments on the cabinet meetings. In one of these notes, dated March 1, 1918 he said:

"Yesterday, at cabinet meeting, we had the first real talk on the war in weeks, yes, in months. Brrleson brought up the matter of Russia—would we support Japan in taking Siberia, or even Vladivostock? Should we join Japan actively—in force?

"The President said 'no,' for the very practical reason that we had no ships. We had difficulty in providing for our men in France and for our allies. (The President never uses this word, saying that we are not allies.)"

In a noto dated March 12, 1918, Secretary Lane wrote:

"Nothing talked of at cabinet that would interest a nation, a family, or a child. No talk of war. No talk of Russia or Japan. Talk by McAdoo about some bills in Congress, by the President about giving the veterans of the Spanish war leave with pay, to attend their annual encampment. And he treated this seriously, as if it were a matter of first importance. . ."

PRESIDENT DISTURBED

"Yesterday we had a cabinet meeting," he wrote under date of October 22, 1918. "All were present. The President was manifestly disturbed. For some weeks we have spent our time at cabinet meetings largely in telling stories. Even at the meeting of a week ago, the day on which the President sent his reply to Germany—his second note of the Paris series—we were given no view of the note which was already in Lansing's hands and was emitted at 4 o'clock. Germany come back with an acceptance of the President's terms—a superficial acceptance at least—hence the appeal to the cabinet yesterday.

"This was his opening: 'I do not know what to do. I must ask your advice. I may have made a mistake in not properly safeguarding what I said before. What do you think should be done?'

"This general query was followed by a long silence, which I broke by saying that Germany would do anything he said.

"'What should I say?' he asked.

"That we would not treat until Germany was across the Rhine.

"This he thought impossible."

Mr. Lane himself became discouraged at times. On January 19, 1920 he wrote:

"The whole world is skew-jee, awry, distorted and altogether perverse. The President is broken in body and obstinate in spirit. Clemenceau is beaten for an office he did not want. Einstein has declared the law of gravitation outgrown and decadent. Drink, consoling friend of a perturbed world, is shut off; and all goes merry as a dance in hell."

Wireless And The Orient

(San Francisco Chronicle)

Commerce on the Pacific and mutual concern both in Asia and this continent in transpacific affairs has developed much faster than means of communication. Baron Yasushi Togo is now in this country as a commercial delegate and one thing which he is to promote is to induce both governments to consent to the use of naval and military wireless stations for commercial purposes. The commercial business would be handled by a private company.

It ought to be done. The trouble will be the "bighead," which is chronic with all governments. It is instinct with every government agency to be exclusive and secret. In time of war that is necessary. It time of peace it is not.

The cable will serve purposes which the wireless in its present development will not. If absolute secrecy is ever assured the wireless may put the cables out of business. At present there is no danger. The Pacific cable has more business than it can handle at commercial rates and naturally is not inclined to displace highly profitable business for traffic at rates which ordinary news can bear. Consequently we get from the Orient only the most condensed statements of the most important occurrences, and the Orient is in the same situation with respect to us. News by mail, at least at present, from the Orient, is not worth sending. It is unlikely to bear any relation—unless it be error—to conditions which prevail when it arrives. Who knows what is going on in Peking this week? Nobody on this side of the Pacific.

It has come to be not only desirable but imperative that the peoples of Eastern Asia and America understand each other better. The desire for information exists on both sides and the governments concerned can do their countries no more useful service than to place their facilities at the disposal of the public through the medium of a private company. Nobody wishes to deal with cranky subordinate officials. It is uncomfortable, for the more insignificant the official the more portentous is his development of bighead.

How About The 'Arranged Marriage'?

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This question was recently asked by a brilliant editorial writer:

"How will the divorce rate of the 200 girls who came to New York from Greece to marry men of their own race whom they had never seen before, compare with that of 200 average American girls who marry according to their own whim and fancy?"

The writer goes on to offer a few sane conclusions.

These Greek men were racially, traditionally and environmentally suited to their "picture brides." Those who arranged the marriages had seen to it that there was little difference in age, social standing, habits of life and methods of thought between the girl and the man in each case. And in relation and language there was no gulf to bridge. And so, he says, those arranged marriages had the advantage of certain things which the sudden and romantic marriage of young America often lacks.

"Personal habits, social customs and family surroundings are overlooked" when the headstrong young Americans marry without consulting their elders or listening to them. This is the conclusion of the writer I am quoting.

Everything he mentions counts. There is only one more essential—and then we have the ideal marriage for "Young America"—for all youth.

Marriage is mating. And mating has a world-wide basis of natural attraction and conscious selection.

The "arranged marriage" may have everything to recommend it from the point of view of suitability, congeniality and a background of traditions shared. As long as it is a generality or a matter or statistics, such a marriage reads well. But to make it work—what of the eager yearning, the impelling devotion, which are required to make the partnership of marriage a partnership of love and not a mere business association?

The "picture bride" takes a leap in the dark. It may lead her to happiness. And a normal mating does not always lead to the heights.

Why, then, cannot youth, for its own protection, yield itself to the guidance of those who know something of the very considerations which the one who arranged for the marriage of the 200 Greek girls had in view?

Youth is often tragically "know-it-all." Age is often foolishly domineering and high-handed. But a compromise would give youth its chance to get the benefits of guidance and sane judgment. And it would still leave the heart of youth free to turn where it longs to go—and not to go too far until it has the benefit of mature judgment.

If parents will but win the confidence of their children it will become increasingly possible to "collaborate" in the choice of mates. Haphazard attraction is dangerous. Arranged marriages are drab, or dangerous adventures.

But the "let's talk it over spirit" has a chance to find the Golden Mean we have all been seeking since the days when Horace sang.

What To Do About The Penniless Discharged From Hospital In Cold Weather

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: Now that the cold weather has come, may we again ask you to remind your readers of our patients at St. Luke's who have been discharged from the hospital and who are without clothing? As we said last year, many of these men are picked up by the police, or brought in as accident cases, and what clothing they have on is often only fit to be burned. Others have come in the summer and are now leaving without money and not knowing what will happen to them next.

Last winter, through the help of friends in Shanghai, we were able to send out over one hundred patients with warm clothing and money for one night's lodging, and we would like so much to do the same again this winter.

Again thanking you, I am,
Yours sincerely,

The Matron,
St. Luke's Hospital,

What Keeps Iron Ships From Sinking

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer And Authority On Subjects Of Scientific Interest)

"My question sounds so foolish that I am almost afraid to ask you to waste your time by answering it. But I have asked all my acquaintances without any avail, and do not know where to look it up, so I must ask you. What I wish to know is: Why does a heavy steamship float on the water? What is there about it that makes it float when a small iron chest will sink to the bottom?"

Your question is not at all foolish, as the failure of your acquaintances to answer it shows. Of course a question may be so really foolish that an answer is impossible; but this is not one of that kind, and those who failed to answer it did so merely through ignorance of some of the primary facts and principles of physics, which I think every person who can read ought to deem as well worth knowing as the name and plot of the latest novel.

The thing about the steamship that makes it float is its hollow, air-filled interior. If a hole is knocked in its bottom so that the water can enter and fill its inner compartments and hollow places, down it will go, not stopping until it rests on the bottom of the lake or sea. Many persons suppose that a sunken ship may remain suspended part way down, but they are mistaken; if the vessel is full of water it will go to the very bottom.

People are perpetually getting confused over this subject of "buoyancy." Many do not know that the principles are the same whether applied to a ship or to a balloon. This is covered by the "law of Archimedes," which the great Syracusan pilosopher, who was killed by a Roman soldier while working on a problem in geometry, first put in this form: "A body when placed in a liquid loses weight equal to the weight of the liquid displaced by it." It was this principle that enabled Archimedes to detect the fraud that a Syracusan jeweler had worked off upon King Hiero by mixing a large qantity of silver in the gold crown that he made for the king.

Many centuries after Archimedes it was found that his law applies to gases, like the atmosphere, and in this case it is usually stated as follows: "A body when immersed in a gas is buoyed up by a force equal to the weight of the gas displaced by it."

A little thought will show you that the two statements of the law are practically identical. If the weight of the immersed body is diminished by an amount equal to the weight of the same bulk of gas or of water which it displaces, then the effect is the same as an upward pressure of that amount on the body.

Now, take your heavy steamship and consider how it is constructed, and how its great weight is distributed. In the first place, it is hollow, and the space occupied by the hollow interior is a great many times larger than that occupied by the relatively thin sides and bottom.

Consequently, the weight is distributed over a comparatively great area of water, and the ship being ballasted in such a way as to keep the closed bottom downward, the water cannot enter the interior space. The upward pressur, or buoyant effect, of the water on the ship is equal to the weight of the amount of water that the ship displaces.

And this will be greater than the downward pressure, or weight, of the ship as long as the latter is less than would be the of a quantity of water equal in bulk to the whole ship, including the interior.

This may be made a little clearer by considering the relative weight of water and of iron (supposing the vessel to be made of iron). A cubic foot of sea water weighs nearly sixty-four pounds, but a cubic foot of cast iron weighs 450 pounds. If, then, you throw a solid cubic foot of iron into the water, it will go to the bottom "like a shot," because it displaces only a cubic foot of water and the buoyancy amounts to only sixty-four pounds against the 450 pounds downward pressure of the iron.

But now shape the same weight of iron into a hollow pot, several feet in diameter. When you set the pot in the water it will sink until it has displaced an amount of water of equal weight with itself, and if you have made the pot large enough, this equality will be attained before it has been entirely submerged. But if the walls of the pot are too thick it will continue to sink because it does not displace enough water to equal, or exceed, its own weight. If, however, the walls are thin and the size of the hollow pot is relatively very great, it will float with its edges well above water. But let the water into the pot and instantly it sinks, because now only as much water is displaced as equals in bulk or volume the solid iron composing the pot. The business of the ship builder is to proportion the size of his hollow vessel to the weight it is to carry afloat.

An Anecdote Of Catherine Of Russia

"Ah! If heaven had only granted me breeches instead of petticoats I could do anything! It is with eyes and arms that one rules, and a woman has only ears!"

Thus spoke the ambitious Catherine of Russia, one of the most powerful monarchs who ever ruled Russia. Although born in Prussia and married to Peter III. of Russia when she was 15 years old, Catherine ascended the throne at the age of 31, forcing her worthless husband to abdicate.

One of her contemporaries speaks of her as a "woman who is a great man." She had the qualities of leadership and ambition rarely found in a woman; she had a masculine brain, she had great feminine beauty and charm, but, above all, she had wit.

Catherine not only knew her powers—she knew her failings as well. She spoke of them in an amusing way. Her chief fault was an almost ungovernable temper. She was so conscious of this fiery, volcanic temper that she always spoke of Vesuvius as "my cousin."

Once at one of her official dinners, the great empress broke into a terrific tirade and displayed her temper before all of the dignitaries of the court.

After this outburst she overheard the secretary, who was devoted to her, say that it was too bad she had made such an unfortunate display. She immediately calmed down, changed her expression, and also the topic of conversation, and was a brilliant and witty Catherine again.

However, upon arising from the table, she walked directly to her secretary. In all her dignity of beauty and power she said:

"How dare you criticise in public what I say?"

The poor secretary literally shook in his boots, and visions of spending the rest of his life in snow-bound Siberia as an exile filled his mind. He had but little sleep that night, and dreaded the summons which he knew would be his early the next morning.

As he expected, bright and early—for the queen arose at six—the secretary was sent for. As soon as he was admitted to her majesty's apartment he rushed toward her and threw himself at her feet, begging for mercy.

Catherine tapped him on the head and told him to arise. Much to his astonishment, she did not appear cruel or even perturbed—on the contrary, she seemed amused. He was overcome as she presented him with a beautiful snuff box, set with diamonds. She laughed, and said:

"Keep this, and when you have any observation to make in public of what I say or do, hold your tongue and take a pinch of snuff. This reminder may be of use to me."

The Other Fellow Chance

BY S. E. KISER

I sometimes get to thinking of the wonder I'd perform
If I could have a certain fellow's chance;
I'd be starting things a-humming,
I would take the town by storm,
I would step right out and lead a merry dance.
I'd accumulate a fortune and have constant peace-of-mind,
I'd be famous from Toronto to La Paz;
Oh, my car would be gold-plated and my big yacht silver-lined
If I could have the chance another has.

I would save up half my income for the future rainy day,
If a certain person's salary
were mine,
And I'd cease to be complaining;
I would cast my cares away;
I would learn to like the weather, rain or shine!
Oh, I'd be a wiz, a wonder; I would prove that I was
"there,"
And rapidly and proudly I'd advance;
I would soon be sitting pretty in a managerial chair,
If I had a certain other fellow's chance.

But even while I'm thinking of the big things I would do
If I had a proper chance to make a noise,
Something seems to whisper to me: "There's a chap just back of you
Who numbers you among the lucky boys.
He wonders why you worry, wonders what you have to dread,
Wonders why you aren't 'getting there' in haste,
And he thinks he'd find it easy to be stepping out ahead
If he had the chance you're letting go to waste.

GERMANS IN DENIAL

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Dec. 4.—The German Ambassador in London has denied a report of a secret military agreement between Germany and Russia, published by the Daily Mail. The Daily Mail, however, again asserts that its information was derived from a trustworthy source.

THE DIVINE SARAH

Paris, Oct. 18.—Sarah Bernhardt, despite her advanced age, recommences her theatrical activities in Paris at the end of the month, when she appears at her own theater in the title role of "The Sphinx," a new play by Maurice Rostand.

The tragedienne also entertains the idea of visiting the United States in the spring.
